Emissions Testing

Good for our air.

Good for your wallet.

What is it?

A simple, 5-minute test performed on your car's tail pipe emissions.

Why get my emissions tested?

In short: It's free and it could save you money!

The balance of chemicals in your car's exhaust can help determine if your car is functioning efficiently. A vehicle that's not running efficiently uses more fuel and may need more repairs, which costs you more money.

We'll also perform other free tests to see if you're vehicle is wasting fuel, including:

- A gas-cap test: About 10 percent of gas caps leak. If yours does, you're losing as much as 30 gallons of gas each year to evaporation.
- A tire-pressure test: Improperly inflated tires can cost you 5–10 percent of your fuel economy.

How does this test help reduce air pollution?

When your car runs efficiently, it produces fewer emissions, and that means less pollution. Everyday activities like driving account for more than 50 percent of the ozone pollution in the Greater Kansas City region.
